Zenith Aircraft Company Expands Representation in Canada

Mexico, Missouri, USA:

Kit aircraft manufacturer Zenith Aircraft Company is pleased to announce that CAN-ZAC Aviation will be representing Zenith's aircraft kits in Canada.

Founded by Zodiac CH 601 XL builders David Barth and Mark Townsend, equal partners of Can-Zac Aviation, the independent company will represent Zenith Aircraft Company's full line of all-metal aircraft plans, kits and products in Canada, including the popular two-seat low-wing Zodiac XL design and the high-wing STOL CH 701 design, which takes off in less than 100 ft. Zenith Aircraft Company produces the aircraft designs from Chris Heintz, one of Canada's most prolific light aircraft designers.

With a more accessible technical assistance department and "no-stress" sales philosophy, Can-Zac will be a welcome addition to the Zenith family. Located in the Kitchener/Waterloo area in southern Ontario, Can-Zac Aviation is dedicated to being accessible for all Canadians.
